

BULLETIN OF THE JOHN RYLANDS LIBRARY

VOLUME 90 NUMBER 2, AUTUMN 2014

Writ from the Heart?
Women's Life Writing in the Long Eighteenth Century

CONTENTS

Introduction: Writ from the Heart? Women's Life Writing in the Long Eighteenth Century Jacqueline Pearson	5
'My Immense Mass of Manuscripts': Fanny Burney as Archivist, Biographer and Autobiographer Claire Harman	15
A Life Recovered: Mary Hamilton 1756–1816 Lisa Crawley	27
'She Did but Take up Old Stories': Generic Fluidity and Women's Life Writing of the Early Eighteenth Century Victoria Joule	47
Narrating Travel, Narrating the Self: Considering Women's Travel Writing as Life Writing Zoë Kinsley	67
Writing Pain: Sensibility and Suffering in the Late Letters of Anna Seward and Mary Robinson Ashley Cross	85
A Naval Wife: The Letters of Susannah Middleton Richard Wragg	111
Sources for the History of Women in Eighteenth-Century Ireland: The Case of Dorothea Herbert's Retrospections Jane Maxwell	127

Gender, Class and Epistolary Suffering: Narrating the Bodily Self in Women's Medical Consultation Letters to Samuel-Auguste Tissot Sonja Boon	143
Cushions, Copy-books and Computers: Ann Griffiths (1776–1805), her Hymns and Letters and their Transmission E. Wyn James	163
Signature Stories: Helen Timberlake's Petition to George III Susan A. Nash	185
Appendix: The Text of the Petitions in Chronological Order	206