

Computer and Telecommunications Law Review

2014 Vol.20 Issue 7
ISSN: 1357-3128

Table of Contents

Articles

HINA SARFARAZ

Surveillance, Privacy and Cyber Law 189

Electronic and internet surveillance is a growing phenomenon in networked societies and especially in the United States. Reasonable expectation of privacy and reliance upon probable cause for search and surveillance are crucial for establishing fundamental freedoms of citizens. This article attempts to study the legal doctrine of cyber law along with developing case law in telecommunications and technology vis-à-vis surveillance and privacy.

DR RASHMI AGGARWAL AND DR
RAJINDER KAUR

An Exploration of India's Legal Framework on Threats of Distributed Denial of Service Attacks 195

Cyber terrorism is the means to cripple the critical infrastructure of a country and create terror or chaos and to achieve this Distributed Denial of Services Attack (DDoS) is one of the most sought after tools. The paper identifies various types of DDoS attacks and encapsulates various legal provisions in India to combat cyber terrorism. It provides an analysis of legal framework under art.51 of the Indian Constitution, Convention of Cybercrime, s.75 and newly amended s.66F of the Information Technology Act 2000. Further, recommendations are made by authors to combat DDoS attacks.

PROFESSOR DUSAN V. POPOVIC

Regulation of the Electronic Communications Sector in Serbia: Sector-specific Rules v General Competition Law 199

In the paper the author analyzes relevant Serbian legislation, the activities of the Agency for Electronic Communications and the Competition Authority, their somewhat overlapping competences and assesses the results achieved in the enforcement of sector-specific rules and general competition rules in the electronic communications markets. The author examines the way in which EU-modeled rules were applied by Serbian institutions, often under pressure from both the Government and the EU to "show results".

DÉSIRÉE FIELDS

Registering Trade Marks as Domain Names with View to Selling for Profit Constitutes Passing Off 209

In Vertical Leisure Ltd v Poleplus Ltd [2014] EWHC 2077 (IPEC), the Intellectual Property Enterprise Court (IPEC) has granted the claimant summary judgment finding that the registering of domain names including the claimant's trade marks and trade names with the aim to sell them for profit amounted to passing off.

Technology Section

JACK CARVEL AND MARK TAYLOR

Wearable Technology 211

The wearable technology market has never been more prominent, with manufacturers competing for body space in a drive to deliver increasingly advanced wearable solutions to perceived problems. This article looks at how this area of technology has developed and assesses its present status.

Special Briefing

PAULA HERRERO PRIETO

Search Engines: Interplay of Fundamental Rights and the Principle of Proportionality 213

Internet search engines represent a new reality often difficult to assess with basis on the current state of the legal framework. The recent case of Google Spain and the right to be forgotten clearly exemplifies this challenge. Taking this case as background, this article examines the role of internet search engines and the fundamental rights affected by its activity. Finally, after analyzing the general principle of proportionality enshrined in EU law, the principle is applied to the specific circumstances of the case.

QUENTIN ARCHER AND JACK
CARVEL

EC Computing, Telecommunications and Related Measures N-129

DAVID E. HALLIDAY

US Federal Computing, Telecommunications and Related Measures N-145